What About Your Town?

"Ourtown" is directly across the river from an intense rival of the town. The inhabitants of the villages, which are practically of the same size, although ours is somewhat larger, carry the rivalry into everything from baseball to social without parties and religion. We are quite convinced that we do things very much better on our side of the river than they do on theirs.

The handling of the present epidemic of influenza is no exception. Ourtown has had a large number of cases and several deaths while in Ourtown but seven families have been affected and there have been no deaths. I would not speak of this in what may be considered a boastful spirit were it not for the fact that there is in our respective experiences a life-saving lesson for cities and villages.

We have specialized in health protection in Ourtown. Our Health Board has as good citizens on its as we have. The appropriations for its work have been generous and it has expended the most modern disease fighting agencies. The school children's health is supervised by a well paid health nurse who is as ambitious to keep all out of the community as a good housewife is to keep bedbugs out of her house.

Ourtown is different. The people are looking backward instead of forward. They say that what was good enough for them when they were young is good enough for their children. They boast about their low tax rate instead of their low death rate. And yet they cannot understand how any community can remain so persistently ignorant as is Ourtown.

COMMITTEES TO HAVE CHARGE OF RELIEF WORK COUNCIL RULES

[By Associated Press.]
London, Jan. 15.—Official statement has been issued here relative to the meeting of the supreme council of supply and relief held at the ministry of commerce in Paris on Monday.

A statement was made before the council summarizing the present position of relief work in regard to Belgium, northern France, southern France, Europe and northern Europe. Resolutions were passed respecting the appointment of committees representative of the four associated governments to supervise arrangements in certain districts.

"Generally speaking the position in regard to allied and liberated territories is that there is a sufficient supply of food and necessities to meet their needs and that all possible steps are being taken to ascertain and meet them and solve the attendant financial and transport questions.

"Consideration was then given to the position of neutrals in the matter of food supplies. Belgium's situation was also discussed. An agreement was also reached on certain questions regarding the organization of the council.

FIRE THREATENS EVANSVILLE THEATER DURING PERFORMANCE

Evansville, Jan. 15.—A panic was narrowly averted at the Magee Opera house last evening by J. J. Waddell, superintendent of schools, when the dieries on the stage became ignited from overheated electric wires.

Shortly after the rise of the curtain on the first act, with the theatre packed to capacity, the draperies which were used in the scene fell to the stage in flames amidst the players. In the haste were many children who became panic stricken at the sight.

The presence of mind of Mr. Waddell and Lemore Clark saved the people from panic. Mr. Waddell and Mr. Clark, realizing the danger, grabbed the wires and pulled them from the stage. Several others, including Rev. McDermott who had charge of the play were burned out the flames in an attempt to stamp out the blaze.

A fire call was sent in and the blaze was quickly extinguished.

An investigation was conducted and it was found that the fire was in no way due to the wiring of the theatre by the management. The extra heavy electric wires were put in for the play only and were entirely too heavy for the theatre.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS WILL NOT EFFECT MONROE DOCTRINE

[By Associated Press.]
Paris, Tuesday, Jan. 14.—Lord Robert Cecil, who discussed with American journalists tonight his views as to the work of a league of nations, had little to say relative to the limitation of armaments. He expressed the opinion, however, that the league of nations "certainly would provide for the limitation and decrease of present armaments."

He said that the league, if formed, would do away with all treaties inconsistent with its tenets, including compacts providing for a balance of power.

Asked what effect the formation of a league of nations would have on the Monroe doctrine, Lord Robert asserted he could see no conflict with the doctrine. Hypothetical questions were raised as to what would happen in case Mexico or a South American country did something that caused trouble with the league, and Lord Robert replied:

"Then I think an arrangement could be made by which America could act in behalf of the league."

Regarding Germany he said: "We must await events. If she turns over a new leaf and tries to repair the damage she has done there is no reason why she should not join. The league is for the good of humanity and not for any select group."

"It will benefit her if she comes in," Austria because of her internal conditions is not ready, Lord Robert said. Dealing with another specific instance he declared it would be an injustice to exclude Bohemia, saying: "She was not to blame for the war and is progressing."

Lord Robert said that the league might in some cases take over administrative control of certain territories of great international interest. He said that Palestine and Constantinople might be in this class. He stated that he accepted President Wilson's view that the league must be constituted by the present congress.

Lord Robert said that all of the allies as a whole favored a league of some sort and that they were not separated by any vital point, as to the scope of the league he said there were still many purely legal disputes between nations which he thought ought to be settled by an arbitration tribunal outside the league. In discussing the probable efficiency of the plan to force the nations to bring their disputes before the tribunal of the league Robert declared:

"If I had had a conference on the reply of Serbia to Austria and had not allowed them to fight for a set period there would have been no war. If the situation had been known to the world no nation could have forced its people to fight."

The Daily Calendar Route

The easiest, simplest, accounting idea yet devised is a Calendar which gives you an opportunity to enter on the date of the month you buy or sell or pay out or receive any money, directly on the calendar pad, which totaled at the end of the month gives an exact record of all transactions. Each month is so arranged as to preserve the record throughout the year. Inasmuch as the government requires an income report, each year it is necessary to keep a complete record of all transactions so that you may be able to intelligently answer the questions on the blank form which the government supplies you with. This calendar was designed for farm use especially, and is so unique and complete and so easily handled that you wonder it had not been thought of long before.

The Farm Income Calendar will save more time and trouble than you ever dreamed of, unless you remember the perplexities of making your report last time without the aid of an income record.

The Farm Income Calendar leaves nothing to guesswork. No confusion about it, the entries can be made by anyone and the totaling at the end of the month is easy as can be.

One of these handy calendars, with one coupon clipped herewith, and mailed to you for 10c to cover cost. Start the year's record at once and be safe.

Voice of the People

To the Editor: In our previous communication to the Gazette we would have been more definite as to the time of visiting the school at the Washington building had we known there has been a change of janitors since then. There has not been a sewing season there since that time. This will exonerate the present janitor from negligence in the public mind.

One From Across the Divide.

We think that the parents of soldiers in France will heartily agree with a "Soldier's Mother" in her article in last night's issue of the Gazette that there should be something done to get the mail to our boys. A boy who has been six months in France writes that he has never received one letter from home, although letters were written to him generally twice a week. At the front he was severely gassed, and has spent the last two months in a large base hospital, where there is an American postoffice. Think what a comfort a few lines from home would have been to him! So many of the boys are penniless, too, as they did not take much money with them, and the government has not paid them. If our government had notified the soldiers to take considerable money with them as they would not have had many comforts, which they are now forced to do without. It is hard for an American boy to go month after month without a "franc" to help for it, as money orders sent are never received. It is deplorable that our mail should accumulate to the amount of eight or ten carloads when we are looking and longing day after day for the letter from the loved ones at home.

A SOLDIER'S FATHER.

An article appeared in the Gazette recently telling of a discharged soldier who claimed he had been robbed at a South Janesville hotel after he had been in company with a woman whom he is said to have met in Janesville and taken to South Janesville. The name of the hotel at which the soldier and the woman stayed was not mentioned in the article.

In order to clear myself of any suspicion in regard to the affair I wish to state that the man and woman did not stay at the Northwestern hotel, which is operated by me. The soldier did come to my hotel after he had been robbed and was without a cent and asked for his breakfast. It was given to him.

Phil Sheridan, Proprietor of Northwestern Hotel.

HEARD FROM OUR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

Private A. W. Pond, with the Triumphant Army, has written to his father, W. S. Pond of Milwaukee avenue.

He relates in an interesting manner his personal experiences in France and Alsace after the armistice was signed. His letter follows:

With the Triumphant Army Nov. 26, 1918.

Since the signing of the armistice our boys have carried us over a lot of territory. We were in a small town some distance back of the lines in the evening. Then we started moving about twenty or thirty kilometers a day, make up camp until the following noon and jump again. The second day we crossed both the old front lines and the new ones. It was great crossing the mountains and seeing the way the Boche had the road protected against aviation pictures and an advance of the tanks. For the former the Boche had heavy and plenty, and for the latter steel rails imbedded in concrete and solid reinforced concrete pillars forming a narrow gateway just large enough for a single car. The Boche had a lot of machine guns on this side of the frontier in gala dress, every house flying a French flag and many those of others of the allies. The flags were quite made of colored paper. Letters were made of colored sheets and I saw one made from a petticoat with the ruffle still on it. On our second day we crossed the frontier. I saw our first peasant girl in costume and got some pictures of her. The mountains on this side seem much more beautiful and the villages near the front are more attractive than the other side. Also the villages were not damaged as they were on the southern slope. The second night over we spent in a Boche bunker. The third night we spent in a cave and the fourth night we spent in a cave and I was out on tourney. We were then about sixty miles behind the Boche and the Kaiser's youngest son. On the frontier we were welcomed with dancing and parades in the streets and lots of girls in costume. Everywhere the comment on the back and poor soldiers was "They are good boys." In the cafes to. Quite a big change from what we have experienced. I took the train again the next afternoon and got a trip back into France, some of the boys were with me. The train was dark long before I got to the frontier and the latter part of the trip was slow. The road was crowded part of the time with released soldiers returning home. I stayed at the hospital for about an hour chatting with those of our section who were on duty and with a returned British prisoner. He was one of those who were at the front and had a skin soup, oats, dogs and amules) that his legs were not an inch and a half through below the knee. Fourteen of those that returned at the time he did got hold of the train and for they reached the official station and ate their fill and died of the effects the next morning. A young lady had ridden over with the old lady. I had brought her to the operation and she had to go back, hence my wait of an hour. It was moon light when we started and as we were both wrapped in blankets we thoroughly enjoyed our thirty-seven mile drive through the mountains and valleys of France and Alsace across both lines and no man's land and the former frontier. She believes she is the first Alsatian to make the trip from Alsace to France and the difference between the two countries was quite a surprise to her. She had dinner with the sisters at the army hospital and was given a loaf of army bread to bring back. It seemed incredible to her that we had plenty of meat, white bread and coffee, and she speaks English. They told me and gave me a grand chat. I took her right to her home some six kilometers out of my way, though touring is a pretty lowed. We made a little stop at a girl walk six kilometers for a little gas? Not a soldier. Of course she asked me to come and call, but the next morning we moved on to meet the young lady on the street near our quarters and she repeated her invitation, so I got a few hours off after dinner and put on the second call since we arrived in France. About four-thirty a colonel and major came to pay their respects to the girls, father the major of the town as they were leaving in the morning. The major immediately disappeared after the first greetings were over and returned with a dust colored bottle of wine and four glasses. We drank to the health of the major and to the French Alsace. I was quite surprised the girl did not take wine as generally in France they do. Her father was

CLINTON NEWS

Clinton, Jan. 13.—Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Collier leave Tuesday for Clear Water, Florida, where they will spend a short time with their daughter, Miss Margaret, who is visiting here.

After which they will visit a number of other places of interest before their return March 1.

The Red Cross society has received quite an amount of refugee work which is badly needed. They are now at the rooms Wednesday and help sew.

At the annual meeting of the Congregational church Friday evening the subject of a union of the Methodist and Congregational churches was discussed, and a vote taken as to whether it should be federation or union. A letter was carried unanimously.

A similar meeting was held Monday morning at the Methodist church, their decision being unanimous for union. It was decided that one strong church could do more efficient work; and it is hoped that they may soon be united.

Mrs. A. S. Woolston is confined to her home with influenza.

G. W. Manley returned Sunday noon from Ohio, where he has visited his daughter. He and his wife left the evening train Sunday for their home at Junction City, Kas.

The Missionary society of the Congregational church will meet at the church parlors Friday, Jan. 18, to luncheon will be served at 1:30 p. m., to which the gentlemen are invited. The meeting will be held at 1:30 p. m., at which the report of the golden jubilee convention held at Oak Park will be given.

Frank Barker of Waukesha visited his wife and mother, Mrs. J. Barker, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Peterson received word that their daughter, Miss Gladys, was seriously ill in Chicago. They left for Chicago Saturday afternoon, accompanied by Miss Alta Lewis, a nurse.

W. W. Dalton was able to get down Saturday.

Mr. Alice P. Inman spent Saturday with her sister, Mrs. Edna Scott. She was returning from a two weeks' visit with her mother, Mrs. Plaver, and brother, Charles, and family at Emerson Grove. She went to Chopiere Sunday.

CAINVILLE CENTER

Cainville Center, Jan. 13.—Mrs. J. W. Norton and Mrs. Charles Elger arrived in Janesville from Canada Sunday morning, with the body of their mother, Mrs. Marcia Clifford.

The funeral was held Sunday at 2 o'clock from the Baptist church, Rev. G. C. Bird of Magnolia officiating. Quite a number from Magnolia were in attendance. Mrs. Clifford was born in Magnolia and resided there all her life except the last few years when she resided with her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Norton.

Fred Byers returned from White-water Saturday night.

There was no church service here Sunday, on account of so many being ill with influenza. The Magnolia Corners school house will be closed for a while on account of so much illness.

Mr. Bird was called home from Baraboo, where he was attending a conference, to officiate at the funeral of Mrs. Clifford.

Charles Roberts came down with influenza Saturday night. Mrs. Lyle Wells is ill with symptoms of influenza.

The Helpers' Union will meet for work Thursday with Mrs. C. Rowland. Mrs. Woodard of Evansville was a Cainville visitor Friday.

Mrs. Jennings of Evansville visited Mrs. H. O. Walton Friday.

Several new cases of influenza were reported Monday morning. George Fern and daughter, Eva, are victims, also Floyd and Bessie Roberts.

NORTH LEYDEN

North Leyden, Jan. 9.—Mrs. C. Harrington and son, Albin, and Willie Hoffman were Janesville shoppers Tuesday.

Mrs. Katherine Kelley has gone to Chicago on professional work.

Miss Genevieve Kealey has returned to her school duties at Waukegan, after spending the holidays at home.

Miss Margaret Ford of Janesville spent last week at the home of her uncle, J. B. Farrington.

P. Beggs is convalescing, after being confined to his home for two weeks with influenza.

The Kealey family were in Janesville Sunday evening.

Mrs. L. Viney, who is confined to her home with a severe case of quinsy, is improving.

John Hubble was in Edgerton Thursday.

Friends of the late Nellie Johnson were shocked to hear of her sudden death on Saturday evening. Deceased was a former resident of this vicinity.

John Farrington is working in Edgerton.

Mrs. H. Boothroyd has been with her daughter, Mrs. L. Viney, the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Heffernan and family were Sunday evening callers at E. Farrington's.

Frank Murphy has gone to Montana on business.

Mr. Handtke was a Janesville shopper Tuesday.

A large number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hemming to bid them farewell. They are going to leave their Leyden home in the near future. Dancing was indulged in, after which the guests departed, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Hemming the best of cheer in their new home.

TRAVEL LITERATURE

Beautiful folders and descriptive literature on travel in California, Arizona, the Northwest and other points of interest have just been received by the Gazette Travel Bureau. New Time Tables have also been received. This literature is free to those interested in traveling.

Mighty!

A MITE is a very tiny quantity, yet it is six-sixths of the word "mighty." Don't ignore want ads because they are little. A service that sells real estate, rents rooms, finds jobs, locates buyers for automobiles, and does other useful things is not, as the saying goes, "to be sneezed at."

A Gazette Want Ad Is a MIGHTY Help in Time of Need. Call 77, either phone, and a trained ad-taker will help you.

Get 7 Per Cent for YOUR Money

We are selling "across the counter" direct to Milwaukee and Wisconsin people an issue of $3,600,000 of 7%, 5-year, bond-secured Gold Notes of The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company. More than a million dollars' worth of the Notes have been bought in the first 30 days, mostly by Milwaukee people who know the Company and the property.

Issuance and sale of these Notes was authorized by the Wisconsin Railroad Commission to finance the growth of greater Milwaukee's electric service system.

Principal of the Notes will be repaid in cash Nov. 1, 1923.

These Notes are on sale in $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 sizes. They sell at par. Your Notes start drawing 7% interest for you from the day you buy them. You draw interest twice a year—May 1 and Nov. 1—by simply cutting off your interest coupon, taking it to the nearest bank, and getting cash for it. These Notes are readily saleable in case of need.

Milwaukee is as solidly prosperous as any city in the world. This Company supplies virtually all of Milwaukee's electric power, light, heat and transportation services. The State-appraised value of the property back of the Notes exceeds funded debt by over $16,000,000. The State rate regulation law assures a reasonable yearly return on State-appraised value. Besides being a general obligation of The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company, these Notes are further secured by deposit of $4,500,000 of 40-year bonds of the Milwaukee Light, Heat & Traction Company with the First Trust Company of Milwaukee as Trustee for the Note buyers. These Companies, thus joint guarantors of these Notes, during their twenty-two years in business have never failed to pay on the due date every dollar of their obligations, with interest as agreed.

Is YOUR MONEY earning 7% with equal SAFETY? If not, we shall be glad to sell you some of these Notes.

Janesville buyers are asked to ORDER DIRECT FROM THE COMPANY. Address: SECURITIES DEPARTMENT, Public Service Building, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. You can send payment with order, or, if you wish it, we will deliver the Notes in care of your home bank, C. O. D. If your home banker advises you not to buy these Notes, and tries to sell you something else paying a lower interest rate, you can tell him the Milwaukee banks have bought hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of these Notes, for themselves and their customers.

GUARD AGAINST BOLSHIEVISM.

In these days of world turmoil it is difficult for us to adjust ourselves to ever changing conditions. We hear much about labor, industry, Bolshevism and economics. Taxes also are a favorite subject for discussion. We do not more than get a grasp of one situation so we think we know something about it than another bobs up and we have to thrust it out to our satisfaction.

All are important and it is necessary to be familiar with these problems so that we can prevent as many mistakes as possible as we plunge into the great work of reconstruction.

Bolshevism is running riot in Russia and in shredded Germany. It has leaped across the ocean and threatens South America. Its fiery breath has scorched every community in which it has been allowed to raise its head.

Its shadowy shape is hid away in many parts of this nation awaiting an opportunity to glide out among the masses and ignite the flame of passion and riot. Bolshevism thrives on ignorance and never overlooks an opportunity to seize upon the slightest excuse to spread its false doctrine
among those who will not see the evil
of its influence.

Bolshevism is the child of Dissatisfaction. Its mother is Discontent, and its father is Idleness. Its companions are Greed, Ignorance and Passion. As it grows in strength it becomes a monster in power and ruthlessly tears
down nations.

With the picture of the effect of Bolshevism in European countries before us, is it not the time now to take every precaution to stamp every suspicion, every indication of its propaganda from our midst?

In reviewing recent events in Europe it will be seen that many soldiers who have served in the great struggle to win the world for democracy have been over to the ranks of the Bolshevists; soldiers who were loyal and who fought valiantly to stamp German militarism into the earth. Why? Because the soldiers on returning to their native land were disfranchised.

We have a condition to confront in this country which is growing more serious. Newspaper dispatches declare that these states report a surplus of common labor, last week, twelve make a similar report
this week.

Men who have left good jobs to serve their country and find on being discharged from service that their places have been filled by men who stayed at home, regardless of the reason for their not being called for re-enlisting, are going to be ready recruits for the ranks of the Bolshevists.
They will fall easy victims to the influences of the smooth propaganda
disseminator.

Every effort should be made by the employer of labor to see that every soldier who has been discharged from the army has an opportunity to go back to his job. It should not be the duty of the discharged man to have to beg for his job. It should be offered to him willingly; wholeheartedly. He should be made to feel that his service has been of value and that in providing a place for him he is getting his just compensation for his sacrifice.

The United States Employment
service is doing all in its power to provide work for the discharged soldier, but it needs the co-operation of the employer.

Much attention is centered on the problem of taxation and the reduction of expenses. It has been proposed that the government dump several thousand motor trucks and machine tools which were necessary
while war was in progress, onto the market.

The economical side of the question is more important to the nation just now than taxation. We are fortunate that the conflict ceased when it did. It has saved us money. If it had continued as the rate it was progressing our taxes would have risen by leaps and bounds. We can afford to consider economics. We can afford to see that every man who leaves the army has a job. We cannot afford to allow the government to throw upon the market, commodities
which will decrease industrial production.

We must forestall any efforts the Bolshevists have made to fan the flame of unrest in the United States.

WHY NOT PAY THE PRICE?
Another cabinet officer has been forced to resign because he felt the salary of the office was too small to allow him to continue in that capacity.
It appears ridiculous for a nation possessing the wealth of the United States to have its executives quit their jobs because they cannot afford to hold them.

On the same page of the newspapers which carry the announcement of Attorney General Gregory's resignation, appears a dispatch saying that the rivers and harbors bill known as the "pork barrel" measure, calling for an appropriation of $28,000,000,
was passed in the house.

Congressmen, naturally, could not see their political fences as easily by voting to give cabinet officers government salaries to attract them to government portfolios as they can by distributing the "pork," but they could obtain the services of high-class men to carry on the executive functions of the nation.

William McAdoo, a man who devoted great energy and wise judgment in the capacity of secretary of the treasury, could not afford to work for the government at a salary which did not afford him more than living expenses, was the first to resign.

Is congress going to allow the big men to be displaced by men who can just about fill a $12,000 job? Can the United States, the biggest concern in the world, afford to let brainy executives resign because they cannot afford to work for the pay offered them?

Cabinet positions in the past have been more or less honorary and unless a man is wealthy enough to stand a hard strain on his pocketbook, he cannot accept a position. And even if he does he is not inclined to keep it during two administrations at an expenditure of so much per administration.

The street commissioner has announced that snow must be removed from sidewalks, but many have not taken the warning seriously. Many dangerous places are to be found in the downtown section as well as in the residential communities. Wouldn't you rather take the trouble to clean off your walk or at least sprinkle ashes on the dangerous spots than have your neighbor fall and injure himself?

Every day witnessed the arrival of new people who are coming to Janesville to make the city their future home. Make it a point to meet these fellows. Extend the glad hand of welcome. Make them feel that they are coming to a city which has the spirit of good fellowship. You will be rewarded many times after you get acquainted with the newcomers.

The Prince of Wales already is putting into practice the principles of democracy for which the allies sacrificed so many lives. He attended a dance at Coblenz and was one of the regular fellows. He danced with American and British nurses without allowing his royal blood to interfere.
Although the prince is not much of a dancer, he made himself popular with the Americans.

Six more states have stepped into the nation dry procession by ratifying
the federal amendment this week,
and others are about ready to take the leap. It begins to look as though the United States was going to be arid territory before long.

In the not far future members of the Blackhawk division who reside in Janesville are coming home. They should be given a glorious welcome.
It is time now to begin making preparations for their reception.

Interpretation Justified.

The statement from Paris yesterday that the Clemenceau government has drafted a plan for a league of nations justified the New York interpretation Tuesday of the position taken by the French premier. Beloit Daily News.

Good for Italy.

There are a number of things to the credit of Riley S. Young, just elected speaker of the state assembly. For one thing, he is in favor of a short and "strictly business" session of the legislature, and this is a plan that will have the endorsement of the people generally. Oshkosh Northwestern.

Royal Democracy.

If the ceremonial banquet given to President Wilson in the royal banquet hall of Buckingham palace was such as to have appalled the democratic spirit of Andrew Jackson or a Thomas Jefferson, there was another side to President Wilson's visit to Europe.

Treated as a king, he treated George
as a democrat. Appleton Evening

Lower California.

"Lower California," says Senator Ashurst of Arizona, "is the vermillion
appendix of Mexico and the Achilles heel of the United States." Therefore he would acquire it, Mexico, however, objects. Eau Claire Leader.

Germany's Monopoly.

The former natural monopoly in polish possessed by Germany does not promise to work out after the war in the same way as before, although the plans of the German government to add to the price of the victor the man who is living today as though he expected to age for a thousand years,
is living better than the man who lives
for today only.

An Archduke Now?

It is stated that a rumor is spreading in Austria that President Wilson is really an Austrian archduke, who mysteriously disappeared some years ago. Superior Telegram.

But One Flag.

Citizenship in America presupposes
as a matter of course, fidelity to America. Individuals are finding out that sight of this fact are finding out that Uncle Sam, patient and long suffering as he is, can be stern and severe when his patience is overtaxed. Milwaukee

The Boho League.

Germany may not get into the league of nations, but can play in the minors, the Boho league so to speak.

FATHER.

It's over twenty years and more since father went away.
And that great spirit that we loved
gave up his house of clay.
And some who knew him then perhaps today cannot recall
The way he looked or spoke or smiled, or was he short or tall?

But I, who used to hold his hand and climb upon his knee, Am certain there are times when he comes back to counsel me.

Time was I used to think of him as
very far from here,
But now I've really come to feel that he is always near.
I don't know how to tell it, but when I have sat alone,
In some way he has come to me and
made his presence known;

Not in the old familiar way when he would take my hand,
But in a fancy or a thought which I could understand.

When at life's crossroads I have stood
and wondered which to take,
And good or ill depended on the choice which I should make,
It seems to me that father then has been right before me.

The way—if he were still on earth—
he'd wish his boy to go.
Perhaps it's only memory, but still I seem to presence every day is very close and real.

Defeat Lies in Giving Up.

It is not losses or falls that make a failure of life, but lack of courage to get up and go on, to pick up the old tools and try again. While life lasts, endeavor must last also, for defeat lies in giving up.—Exchange.

That loud, piercing silence now

PREDICTIONS FOR 1919.

(By Prof. Goosebone, Our Own Chief Astrologer.)

There is tough luck in store for several crowned heads in Europe. I know this is true. I predicted the Boxer rebellion in China the very day after it started.

The cost of living will be much higher before it is much lower.
A very prominent personage will return from Europe.

There will be violent volcanic disturbances in Washington and much high wind.

There will be a decided boom in patent medicine sales about July 1.
The end of the world will occur
August 17, also September 21 and November 5, as usual.

The peace conference will be held in Europe, and will last several days.
Several gentlemen will take the pledge on June 30 and will keep it.

The peach crop will be killed four times before June 1.
Nothing in particular will happen
on March 4 this year.

Twenty-five thousand gentlemen in shiny frock coats will spread out over the country selling histories of the great war.

OUR OWN FOURTEEN PEACE POINTS.

1—Freedom of speech.
2—Freedom of thought.
3—Freedom of press.
4—Punishment of profiteers.
5—Cheaper milk.
6—Efficient public service.
7—Fewer "professional" patriots.
8—Transportation for coal.
9—Regulation of restaurants.
10—Less bunk.
11—More business.
12—Less "What we have done."
13—More "What we are doing now."
14—Legislation for the benefit of the ultimate consumer.

"KEEP YOUNG MEN AT HOME TO BUILD CITY" URGES PROF. HOLDEN

and ask himself this question: "What is my town going to be 25, 50 or 100 years from now?" He can answer this question by saying: "It will be just what we make it—what we live here."

"It is the duty of every individual to be of real service to his community. The obligations of citizenship do not cease with the paying of taxes and the performance of the requirements of the law. It is the things we do in addition to the requirements of the law. It is the real worth of the citizen."

"Business men of Janesville, remember this, that what Janesville will be in 35 years from now will depend on you—nobody else but you.

"You have a well-organized Chamber of Commerce. Make this the heart of the plan which you are to work out.
Co-operate with it with all your institutions, the home, the school, the church, the lodge, the press, business,
city government and other organizations which have the good of Janesville at heart. Let it lead, direct and protect Janesville can be no greater than the people.

Need Men of Vision.
"Locate six men in this city with vision and put them to work and you will have a bigger and better Janesville. The man who is living today as though he expected to age for a thousand years, is living better than the man who lives for today only.

"If I owned this city, I would establish a center where we could look after everybody. If anything is accomplished, work must be centralized have everybody working for the same purpose.

"Every person in Janesville who really wishes to see a bigger and better city should be willing to make sacrifices. He should be willing to lose at least one hour's time each day to the upbuilding of the community. The citizens should continue the sacrifices
they have made along that line in the war work.

"You should put Janesville on the map. One of the best ways to do this is to offer a prize for the best story telling what Janesville will be in 1950.
When you have this story, work to bring about the realization.

ADD THREE—Keep YOUNG Men.
"Keep this thought in your minds:
The two great things that make a nation or a community are soil and humanity. You have the soil. Develop the humanity side and you will grow."

Greeted With Applause.
Prof. Holden spoke before the Twilight club three years ago and when he entered the auditorium he was greeted with great applause. He sat beside of his wife, who is ill in Chicago, to appear before the club,
and the members showed their appreciation of his coming under the circumstances.

Prof. C. J. Galpin of the University of Wisconsin made a brief address
while the club awaited Prof. Holden's appearance. He spoke of the changes in the young men who have left this community to take part in the war,
and told of the need for making them feel satisfied when they came back.

"These boys who went away, untrained, equipped with little knowledge of the world outside of their own community, are coming back satisfied men. They have been up against the big things of the world.
They have become disciplined and are broader. The farmer's boy who never had been far from home, has been to London, Paris and New York. He has a broader vision. He is efficient and when he comes home he will want a job big enough for him. If he does not find it he will be dissatisfied.

"His idea of social life has changed,
too. Boys who had never indulged in social activities have been invited to some of the best homes in great cities. They have met the best of the people in these homes and it is natural to suppose that when they return they will be critical of the social conditions of some provisions are not made to afford the opportunities similar to those enjoyed in the last year.

J. A. Craig presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers. Roger Cunningham was selected to preside at the February meeting. The subject will be "Government Control."
The March meeting will be set aside
as a musical night, following the custom of the last two years. F. F.
Lewis will be in charge of the program.

Liner Empress of Asia, used as transport during war, and route it is taking on long voyage with Canadian soldiers.

Fifteen hundred officers and men of the Canadian expeditionary forces are bound for their homes in British Columbia and Alberta on board the Empress of Asia, Canadian Pacific ocean service liner. They will make the entire journey to Vancouver on that ship, which was turned over for service as a transport when the war broke out. The ocean voyage taken by new soldier passengers is probably the longest one taken by any of the troops which participated in the war.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

Do you know, it's a long long time since we've heard anything about Mr. Sharpooth Rat. He lived in the Big Woods, you remember, where the Weathercock sat on the top all day and danced when the breezes began to play.

Well, Mr. Sharpooth Rat was very thin, for me tell you, for the big farmer had sent all his grain over to our boys in France and had only kept just enough for the animals and chickens so that this old rat had found very little for dinner and sometimes nothing at all for breakfast.

So one morning he crept into the hen house and looked about him. And just then Henry Jenny stepped out of her nest and began to sing: "Crackle, crackle, ker loo, ker loo, I've laid an egg of snow white hue. It's in my little nest of hay."

Just where, I tell you every day. And after that she went outside to the barn yard and scratched for worms.

"Now's my chance to get a nice fresh egg," thought Mr. Sly Old Sharpooth, and he jumped into the nest. And what do you suppose he found there? Why, two eggs. But he didn't know that one was a china egg which the big farmer always left in the nest so as not to disappoint the little hen when he took away the egg she laid most every day.

"I guess I'll take an egg home to Mr. Sharpooth," said the old rat, and then he carefully rolled the china egg out of the nest onto the floor of the hen house, and after that he pushed it through a crack in the floor, by and by, pushing and shoving, and twisting, he got it into his house in the Old Barn Yard.

"Oh, Mrs. Rat, come here and see what I have got for you and me. A nice fresh egg from Henry Jenny. Just think, it didn't cost a penny."

And then that old robber rat and his wife started in to open that china egg.

"Ha, ha! Ha, ha!" laughed the Weathercock, pecking down through a crack in the roof. "Pretty tough shell, eh?" and then he laughed again and swung around on his right toe.

"Goodness me, but that's a funny egg," said Mrs. Sharpooth. And all of a sudden it slipped out of her paws and rolled into the barnyard. And just then the big farmer looked out of his house, and in the next story you shall hear what he did; that is, if the little china egg doesn't roll into the babbling brook and frighten the little fishes to death.

AMUSEMENTS

Notices Furnished By The Theatres.

"The Heart of Wotonia," was the attraction at the Apollo theatre last night, produced by the Winner players in a commendable manner. The performance was given an excellent mounting in appropriate stage settings and effects and the wardrobe was correct in every detail. Manager Winner should pride himself on his exceptionally clever company this season. He certainly gives value received.

The specialties pleased immensely, Arthur and Earle and John D. Winninger making distinct hits. Tonight they will present a great sensational comedy drama, "Birds of Prey."

The Thirteenth Commandment

By
RUPERT HUGHES

Copyright by Harper & Brothers

"Troubles mustered about them as weeds shove up in a garden faster than they can be plucked out. Expenses undreamed of materialized in swarms. Everything was delayed except the demands for their money. The petty-cash box, like a sort of perverted fairy purse, emptied itself as fast as it was filled.

The petty cash was the least of their dismay. The grand cash was the main problem. They had stitched their fingers full of holes and piled up reams of fabrics, but the total was pathetically tiny.

One thing was instantly demonstrated. They must give up their plan or go into debt. Indeed, they already were in debt.

"We've got to take the plunge," said Daphne. "I'd rather die than go on paying a year's rent for an empty shop."

"I know," Mrs. Chivvis fretted, gnawing her thin lips. "but it's a risk. You'd better ask your brother."

"No!" Daphne stormed. "I'm going to win out on my own. Poor Bayard is too busy to be bothered with my troubles. He doesn't know I have any. And Lella is too busy with her social business that she never asks me what I'm up to."

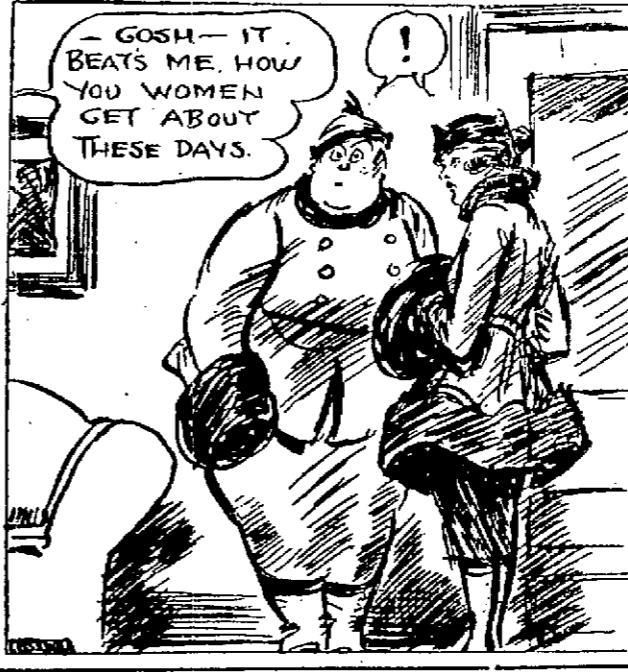

"But what are we to do?" Mrs. Chivvis wailed. "We can't go on with our stock, and you have no money left, and I haven't any to start with."

"There's only one thing to do," Daphne answered, with a sphinxlike solemnity. "Buy on credit. It's a case of nothing venture, nothing gain; nothing purchase, nothing sell; nothing borrow, nothing pay. The only way to get out of debt is to go in deeper—like getting a fish hook out of your thumb."

Mrs. Chivvis suffered herself to be persuaded. They visited the wholesalers and the jobbers and were well received, having paid cash before—and, thanks to Mr. Chivvis' suggestion, having been astute enough to demand discount for cash.

And now the motortrucks and the delivery wagons and the cyclecars and the messenger boys began to pour stock into the little shop. It was pleasant not to have to pay for things, though the tips were reaching alarming proportions, and the bundle of bills for future settlement grew and grew. Mrs. Chivvis made a list of their debts, and tried to show it to Daphne.

PITEY DINK—NOW THE SECRET OF THE TIGHT SKIRT IS OUT.

but she stopped her eyes and ears and forbade any discussion that would quench her spirit.

In the swirl of her tasks Daphne almost forgot Clay Wimburn. She was too busy to care much. She had no time to mourn. Clay was only one among a myriad of regrets, and his affairs could wait. Her business needs could not.

Clay did not come near her. He spent a lot of money trying to get her off his mind. He got a good deal on his conscience, but not Daphne off his mind. He longed for her especially, too, because there came a sudden disaster to his schemes. He was not so rich as he had been. Indeed, he could not be sure that he was rich at all. Any day might smother him with bankruptcy. This fear kept him from Daphne, too.

The bounding mania stocks that were known as "war babies" had abruptly fallen into a decline. The submarine that torpedoed the Lusitania shattered Wall street's joy, threw the dread of war into the United States, and set every one to questioning the problem of revenge and its cost.

The slump in the market came at the most unfortunate moment for Bayard and Clay. Any moment of slump, indeed, would have come most untimely for their ventures.

"Kip and Chivvis" were making a picnic ground of the shop. Behind the soap-vended windows they laughed and debated on arrangements and price tags and show cards.

Mrs. Chivvis, still out of a job, acted as maid of all work and stevedore, and grew so useful that they had to put him out. And at last the moment arrived when they declared the shop open, "raised the curtain," as Daphne said. She waited with a stage-fright she had not felt in Reben's theater. There was no lack of temperament in her manner now. But there was no audience, either.

At night Kip and Chivvis locked their doors and went home, discouraged beyond words and dimly weary in the legs, also in the smiles, muscles which had been kept at an expectant, tension all day long.

Occasional purchases were made, but unimportant. Kip and Chivvis tried to learn what interested people and what did not. They realized that they had far too much of certain things and far too little of others. They attempted to sell the deadwood by marking it down; but it would not move.

"What do the women care for prices?" Daphne railed. "They are spending some man's money, anyway. They pretend that it's to please him, but they know and we know that it's because they hate each other."

One day a great lady who could hardly squeeze through the door creaked into the shop and spilled herself into a startled little chair like a load of coal. Daphne felt that she was about to die on their hands or ask for an ambulance, but she asked instead for an emboldened breakfast gown from the window.

Mrs. Chivvis fetched it and the old gress clutched it from her, holding it up to her nose as if to sniff it, but really to see it.

"That's it! That's what I've been looking for!" she wheezed. "Have you got much of this sort of thing?"

"Oh yes."

"Agh, that's good! My daughter is marrying in some haste—a young imbecile who's going over to France to run an ambulance. I'm Mrs. Romilly."

Mrs. Chivvis waited unperturbed for further identification. Daphne had never heard of Mrs. Romilly, either, but she gasped as if she had been saying her prayers at the shrine of Romilly from childhood and now had been visited by the patron saint, whom she had recognized at once, of course.

"Oh yes, of course."

Mrs. Romilly was coughing on. "I've been to several shops, and I was almost in despair until I saw your sign. If you could do a few things in rather a hurry I fancy I could give you a large-ish order. And if the things were at all successful, I could throw quite a little trade your way. You're rather new, aren't you?"

Daphne assented that the firm was quite new. She brought forward an order pad and stood at attention.

Mrs. Romilly had trousséed a large family of children and several poor relations. She knew what she wanted and what she ought to pay for it and when it should be done. Daphne took down her orders as if the little those things on credit."

"Then I'll borrow cash and pay for it."

"Borrow where? You said you wouldn't trouble your brother."

"I'm not responsible for what I have said or may say. Besides, I don't mind going to Bayard, now that I can go with success. I'll call on him in a business way and offer him interest and all that. I guess Mrs. Romilly's name is good enough collateral."

All unconscious of Daphne's affairs, Bayard was approaching his office with the brisk manner of a triumphant capitalist. But that was bluff, for outward effect. He was actually dizzy with loss of bearings and control.

Bayard had carried heavier burdens than Clay, and under the sting of Lella's whip had taken greater risks for higher prizes. The crash in the street had found him so extended that he could not recover without additional help. That very morning one of his brokers had called on him for a renewal of margins. He had to have five thousand dollars or he would lose fifty.

Rebuffed from every door, Bayard and gone to Wetherell's office—a mysterious sort of place surrounded by guards and secret service men to ward off the menace of spies, real and imaginary.

Bayard had unusual difficulty in passing the lines. The reason he soon learned. A new man was in charge in Wetherell's place, a retired British officer whose natural and affected gruffness was aggravated by the unpleasant nature of his tasks. He had only one eye.

He made Bayard describe who and what he was and what he wanted. Only Bayard's desperation gave him strength to ask this old Cyclops for an advance on new contracts.

Bayard went away in a stupor. He and intelligence enough to feel that he could less safely attack Wetherell now than before. He would seem to be implicated in the fellow's malfeasance. He would only advertise to his creditors that his vaunted contracts were worthless. Business men will endure much to escape such publication of their wrongs.

Bayard kept his head high till he reached his own office. Then he fell into his chair and propped his elbows on his desk and gripped his hot brows in his hands as if he were holding his skull together. It is the business man's attitude of prayer.

It was thus that Daphne found him when she opened the door narrowly and closed it behind her as softly as La Tosca. She was beaming with affection and importance, and when at her mischievous "Ahem!" Bayard looked up she was so pretty that he forgot himself long enough to smile and rush forward to embrace her.

She was wondering how to state her errand when the telephone rang. It startled Bayard strangely. He caught it to his lips as a toper lifts a glass. He pressed the receiver to his ear and evidently recognized the voice that said "Hello" from somewhere.

He answered in monosyllables of the least importance, but Daphne heard gloom in them.

Bayard hung up the receiver, pushed the telephone away as a bitter cup, and laughed sheepishly.

"Great convenience, the telephone! Just learned that I've dropped more money than I ever hoped to have. For want of a nail the shoe was lost. Oh well, it saves me from spending it foolishly. But if I'd had five thousand dollars—My God! if I'd had five thousand dollars."

Daphne could think of nothing more helpful to say than a casual, "How's Lella?"

"Don't ask me!" Bayard smiled. "Tell me. What can I do for you, honey, before I go to take some nasty medicine from the president."

"Nothing dear. I had to come downtown on an errand, so I thought I'd run in and say 'hello.'"

"Well, hello!"

He kissed her and patted her back with doleful tenderness and she went out of his office into the elevator. Its iron-barred door and its clanking chains gave it a congenial prison feeling, and the bottomless pit it dropped into seemed even more appropriate.

Insect Instinct.

Naturalists for a long time were at a loss to understand how it was that insects were enabled to so quickly recognize an intruder among their family or settlement. It has been determined that in most cases they recognize each other by smell. Among the bees each distinctive class of workers—the guard, the fanner, the pollen carrier, the waxmaker, the architect, etc., has its own distinctive odor. And besides this each bee has its own separate, hive odor, which is its passport into its own particular home.

A Servian Dance.

The polka, which is danced to some extent yet, is said to have been originally a Servian war dance.

DINNER STORIES

While waiting for a train home from the city one night Jones grew restless and looked about for something interesting. His eye fell upon a slot machine and he promptly inserted a penny.

"I have often wondered," he remarked aloud, in the manner of all truly thoughtful men, "where the profit on these machines is."

Here he grasped the handle with a firm and masterful grip.

"Where the profit on these affairs is," he said, shaking the machine.

"I have often wondered," he continued, giving it another vigorous shake, "where the profit—hang the thing!"

Then one of the porters came up and told him that the machine was out of order, and Jones realized at last where part of the profit came from.

"May I ask what is going on in the village?" inquired the stranger.

"We're celebrating the birthday of the oldest inhabitant," replied the native. "She is 104 today."

"And tell me, pray why does that little man by the old lady's side wear such a dreadfully sad countenance on such a joyous occasion?"

"That little man, sir, is the old lady's son-in-law. He's been keeping up her life insurance for the last 30 years."

On an American transport two days out from Liverpool:

Piers Sambo, who is really enjoying the sea, to his dark companion who has gone below—"Nigger! Come on up! We're passing a ship!"

Voice from below—"I don't want to see no ship. You jes' call me when we're passing a tree."

FOOTVILLE

Footville, Jan. 15.—Alex Cook visited friends in town recently. He has received an honorable discharge.

Do Not Get Careless With Your Blood Supply

Impurities Invite Disease

You should pay particular heed to any indication that your blood supply is becoming sluggish, or that there is a lessening in its strong and vital force.

By keeping your blood purified, your system more easily wards off disease that is ever present, waiting to attack wherever there is an opening. A few bottles of S. S. S., the great vegetable blood medicine, will revitalize your blood and give you new strength and a healthy, vigorous vitality. Everyone needs it just now to keep the system in perfect condition. Go to your drug store and get a bottle today, and if you need any medical advice, you can obtain it without cost by writing to Medical Director, Swift Specific Co., 25 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

The Wind.

When you are discussing the wind you must know that a gentle wind travels about five miles per hour, a high wind about 30 to 45 miles per hour, and a great hurricane 80 to 100 miles per hour. The velocity of the earth on its own axis exceeds, it is believed, 1,000 miles an hour. The velocity of the earth around the sun is calculated to be 68,000 miles per hour, and the velocity of the moon to the 2,273 miles per hour.

Nuxated Iron Helps to Spread Health and Strength to 3,000,000 People Annually. Get Your Share!

When you think of the successful men and women you know—people who are doing things worth while—you will find that they possess force, vim and energy—the kind that simply brim over when the blood is filled with iron.

Iron is red blood food—it helps put strength and energy into the veins of men and roses into the cheeks of women.

A prominent New York Surgeon and former Adjunct Professor of the New York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital, Dr. Kenneth E. MacAlpine, says: "If people would only realize that iron is just as indispensable to the blood as is the air to the lungs and be just as particular about keeping up a sufficient supply at all times there would, in my opinion, be far less disease resulting from anemic, weakened conditions. In my opinion, Nuxated Iron is the most valuable tonic, strength and blood builder any physician can prescribe."

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron, which has been prescribed and recommended by physicians and which is used by over three million people annually is not a secret remedy, but one which is well-known to the general public. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black nor irritate the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money.

Suggestions to Women "Just Ready to Drop"

When you are "just ready to drop," when you feel so weak that you can hardly drag yourself about—and because you have not slept well, you get up as tired out next morning as when you went to bed, you need help. Vinol will help you just as it did these two women. Why not try it?

Pittsburgh, Pa. Holmdel, N.J.

"I keep house for my husband and myself and I got into a weak, run-down, nervous condition and no appetite. I heard how Vinol helped others and tried it and it built me up so I am strong, have a good appetite and feel better in every way." — Mrs. James Crocker.

For all run-down, nervous, anemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children, there is no remedy like Vinol.

LAKOTA CARDINALS TO OPEN SEASON AT ARMORY, THURSDAY

Local Basketball Organization Will Play Initial Game of Season Against Camp Grant Five To-Morrow Night

After a lapse of nearly two years, basketball will be rejuvenated in this city on Thursday evening at the Armory when the Lakota Cardinals meet the Camp Grant team. The game on Thursday will probably be the hardest of the season for the local men as the team representing the Rockford cantonment is composed of former college stars well known in the basketball world.

Headed by Delmore, a former Marquette University player, the team has made an enviable record and have not been defeated this season. On last Thursday they met the Rock Island Independents, a team classed with such teams as the I. A. C. and the Elgins, and defeated them 40 to 18.

Captain Hemmings of the Lakota Cardinals is pointing out this morning that owing to the fact that George Lewis is in Minnesota for a few weeks coaching Carlton College, he will be unable to play against the Cardinals. No definite line up for the Cardinals has been arranged as yet, as word is being awaited from Madison relative to a player from the University. As a team, however, the Cardinals are such stars as Hemmings, Murphy, Tille, Phillips, a Beloit College star and possibly Sutton of Edgerton.

Among the teams that will be seen in action on the night of this year are: The Whiting Owls, Elgins of Elgin, Muscatine, Beloit Ladies, Detroit Pioneers, I. A. C., Chicago, Lakes, and possibly the Springfield, Mass., Turning School. On Saturday Feb. 15, the Cardinals will clash with the Owls at Whiting, Ind.

Every effort has been made to present the strongest team possible to represent Jamesville and with the return of George Lewis the Cardinals should rank among the leading teams of the middle west. Basketball to Chicago is like baseball to Chicago. Scouts and the team that will represent this city during the season will be one that the people of Jamesville can proudly claim as their own. As a preliminary to the Camp Grant vs. Lakota Cardinal game at the Armory Thursday, the "X" All Stars will play the 3rd game of a series with the Red Sox. Both teams have won one game, and are on their mettle to win the 3rd and deciding game. The game promises to be a first one as both the other games were "the five ups" for both teams will probably be.

BLUE MOUND GOLFERS AFTER 1919 TOURNEY

Chicago, Jan. 15.—The Blue Mound Country club, is in the field for a 1919 championship tournament of the Women's Western Golf Association. The event will be made at the next meeting of the association, scheduled for February. The 1918 tournament was held at Indian Hill Country club, Winnetka, Ill.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Pudin Bittor-Phosphate to Put On Firm, Healthy Flesh and To Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making the body fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curves of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency as well as the pure phosphate known as Pudin Bittor-Phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by Smith Drug Co. in Jamesville, and almost all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, Pudin Bittor-Phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

CAUTION: Although Pudin Bittor-Phosphate is unsuited for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable energizing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

THE COMEBACK OF SPORTS

TENNIS

By JACK VEIOCK.
International News Sports Editor.

New York, Jan. 15.—Increased activity in tennis throughout the country this year as a result of the coming of peace is the prediction of officials of the U. S. National Lawn Tennis Association.

Tennis managers to struggle through the world war, keeping its fixtures—annual tournaments—alive, and doing its bit for war charities. In 1917 the abolition of title play and the institution of "patriotic tourneys" held the game up. Last year the renewal of title play revived lagging interest, and the organization held tournaments to aid the war effort. It received more favorable recognition from the colleges as a major sport than ever before, and the fostering of boys' and girls' and junior tennis by the National body awakened new interest.

President G. W. Adee, of the U. S. N. L. T. A., predicts a banner year for the game. Vice-President Julian S. Myrick's opinion as to the outlook for 1919 was expressed as follows:

"Indications now point to the most active season in tennis during 1919 that this country has ever had. The number of tournaments should be greatly increased, with a corresponding increase in the number of players competing. During the unfavorable conditions of 1917 and 1918 the Association was able to proceed with its programme for developing youngsters, and remarkably successful national championships were held. Consequently there is a large body of new players ready to take the places of those who have been out of tournament competition during the war. The ability of these comparative newcomers is evident in the report of the ranking committee which shows that many youngsters won tennis honors last season."

"Further proof that this development of the game among youngsters has been along right lines is found in the action of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, which voted to recommend to its members first that they provide the needs of their undergraduates, and second, that they accord the same recognition to the members of the tennis team that is given the institutions' representatives in other lines of sport. It is believed that this will result in more attention to tennis as a college sport."

"Plans are being considered by the National Association to make the championship of 1919 the greatest event of the kind that has ever been held in this country. All the players who have been in the service will be urged to compete, as well as the more recent additions to the ranking list. With plans under way to re-establish the Davis Cup competition in 1920, more municipal courts, the need for which was becoming increasingly acute when war temporarily put an end to such public improvement.

"The establishment of the Father and Son and Veterans' championships tend to hold the interest of another body of players and the prospects of the Davis Cup matches in 1920 will also increase the popularity of the sport."

"The outlook for tennis during 1919 is most encouraging. Although tournament play during the war was far from normal, the game did not lapse, and now that hostilities have ended, tennis will probably advance more rapidly than ever before. This opinion is justified by a number of conditions. First, the National Association has increased its membership and has added and over through clubs may be more or less disorganized, they are fundamentally in sound condition. The tournaments which conditions permitted several to hold together a large number of new players with the game and their interest is bound to be felt. The coming of peace will give an opportunity for cities to provide more municipal courts, the need for

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

MORRIS MILLER

While the Robins were at their training camp at Hot Springs last spring Uncle Robbie engaged in a conversation concerning the batting strength of his club. "Look over the batting records of the men I have," said the retired leader, "and you'll see that outside of Danbert and Zack Wheat the club's batting average is slightly below the .260 mark. With Jake and Zack out there banging the bat, they will average about .350. At the end of the 1918 season, providing Zack reports to the club, I think that you will read that the Robins' batting average will be .350; and furthermore, if the slugger joins the club he has a good chance of winning the season's batting honors." That Uncle Robbie knew what he was talking about was shown by the official National League batting averages, just issued. The Robins as a team batted .260 to the dot, and Zack Wheat was crowned the batting champion.

The signing of the armistice and the return of many Canadian troops to their homes has resulted in a new boom in the boxing game in the Dominion, particularly among the amateur unit artists, and it is expected that the famous Riverside Athletic club of Toronto will be represented by a formidable team at the inter-collegiate tournament which is to be held at the Pittsburgh A. A. on January 18. So many of the leading Canadian amateurs were in France last year that it was impossible to whip together a representative team, but most of these boys have returned, some of them having gone through the hardest kind of fighting in France. One of these is William Hadden, the Canadian and national champion.

Once again the mid-winter rumor that Ban Johnson is to be ousted has proved mere puff.

Johnson has been the president of the American league for eighteen consecutive years. He was elected in 1900 for a period of ten years, and on February 15, 1910, he was re-elected for twenty years with a contract that still has eleven years to run. Since the American league was founded by Johnson in 1900, the National league has been ruled by six presidents. The late N. L. C. P. Cullum reigned from 1903 to July 1909. John A. Heydler was president during the remainder of 1909 when Thomas J. Lynch, his successor, served for four years. The Hon. John K. Tener was elected for five years in 1913, and recently Heydler was chosen for three years by a unanimous vote.

Pittsburg fans already are planning a great reception for Lieut. Elmer Pender when the young pitcher joins the Pirates at the opening of the season, for he has made an excellent record as an aviator and earned designation as an ace just prior to the signing of the armistice. Pender, in his brief career as a Pirate, showed signs of developing into a very effective hurler, and Hugo Bezdek, who is proud of the valorous conduct of the youngster in Uncle Sam's service, will hail his return with joy. The pitcher has not yet received his discharge from the aviation corps, but expects to be sent home soon, and counts on returning to Bezdek at the Pirates' training camp.

Mrs. R. A. Richards of Dedham has been elected secretary of the Boston Terrier club. The first woman to hold that office in the history of the organization.

Golf enthusiasts propose an amateur tourney next spring for play-

"Kid" Gleason, keeping in trim.

No single figure in baseball this season will be watched with greater interest than "Kid" Gleason. Owner Comiskey of the White Sox recently named Gleason to succeed Pants Rowland as manager of the Sox club. Gleason has been in the game about thirty years, over twenty of these as a player. But he has never managed a team.

GOLDFISH TRAMPLE ON BELOIT SQUAD

Hitting the pins for a total of 2,734, the Goldfish trampled all over Hoyt's Corn Planters last night, hanging up a victory by a margin of 309 pins. The two hundred mark was hit several times by local pin artists, Merriek securing high honors with 206.

Rolling in the same form they showed last night, the Goldfish ought to cop off big money at the state bowling tournament in Green Bay, Wis., which they will attend the latter part of the month.

Farm Accounts and the Farm Calendar

The government income report is a mighty hard and inconvenient thing to make out unless you have at hand the data recording your purchases and expenditures during the twelve months past.

The Jamesville Daily Gazette has for distribution, a calendar produced especially for farm accounts which is the simplest accounting system yet devised. An opportunity is given to enter under the date of the month you buy or sell or pay out or receive any money directly on the calendar page, which totaled at the end of the month gives an exact record of all transactions. Anyone can make these entries and the records are then preserved there to the end of the year.

If you have made out an income report to the government without some form of income record, you will remember how difficult it was to answer the questions intelligently. This calendar is unique and complete, is easily handled and is designed especially for farm use. It will save more time and trouble than you ever dreamed of. There is no confusion or guess work and it helps you at a time when you most need it. This calendar is sent to anyone on receipt of 10c or is free with a year's subscription to the Daily Gazette.

Watch Coal.

Coal in storage must be carefully watched or it will be destroyed by spontaneous combustion. If the temperature reaches 150 degrees Fahrenheit the coal should be carefully watched, and if the temperature rises to 170 or 180 degrees Fahrenheit the coal should be removed as promptly as possible. The coal should be thoroughly cooled before being replaced in storage. There are now automatic devices to be scattered throughout big coal piles which will record these temperatures at some convenient point so that they are under constant supervision and loss by fire is prevented.

CANADIAN ACE TO FLY ACROSS OCEAN

Col. Raymond C. Collinshaw, D. S. C., was the first Canadian aviator to reach France at the beginning of the war. He is thus their senior flying man, although but twenty-four years of age. His official victories number sixty. Although he has just returned to Canada he is not at all weary of flying and is already planning to beat the United States in making the transatlantic flight and is enlisting financial support that he may make a start in the spring.
